

In spite of all the predictions, the Democratic party won't split on the tariff issue. There may be, and doubtless are, different views upon this subject, entertained by different members of the party, but that is no reason why a party united upon other and more important subjects should permit their differences, upon one subject to defeat the grand objects sought to be attained. The solution of the difficulty seems more simple as the time approaches. The party is actuated by a desire to secure the greatest good to the greatest number. Each member may not be able to have his own individual views upon every subject incorporated into the platform of the party, but the position of the party upon this question, while conservative, will be sufficiently clear to convince all classes of people that the Democratic party will give them a government which will protect every legitimate right of the people. If there be any that suppose that the Democratic party will adopt a policy favoring the taxation of one class of citizens for the exclusive benefit of another class, they will be mistaken. A party that adopts such a policy does not deserve the support of the people and the sooner it is defeated the better it will be for all classes.

The platform of the party, we have no doubt, will be clear and explicit upon this subject, and will enunciate the old Democratic doctrine upon the tariff. This issue disposed of, it will go before the people, with living issues. The rescue of the government from the hands of the party that has lived by corrupt methods for years is the important work before the people. An honest administration of the government and equal protection to all classes of citizens are some of the objects to be secured by a change of administration. The government has been run long enough by bosses. The people propose to take charge of the affairs of the nation and will administer them for the good of all the people, and not for a selected class exclusively, as has been the policy of the republican party.

Democratic County Convention.

To the Democrats of Shenandoah County:—
A county convention is called to meet in the Court House in Woodstock, Va., on Monday, April 7th, 1884, at 1 o'clock P. M., to select delegates to represent the county in the State Democratic Convention which has been called to meet in the city of Richmond, on the 14th, day of May, next.

A full attendance on the part of the democracy of the county is earnestly requested.

E. D. Newman, Chmn. Co. Com. of the Democratic Party.

STATE CONVENTIONS.—The Democratic State Convention will be held in Richmond on the 14th of May.

The Coalition State Convention will be held on the 30th of April, in the same city.

GARRISON, democrat, was seated in place of Mayo, readjuster, by a unanimous vote of the House of Representatives. O'Ferrall's case, it is thought, will be reported in a short time, and that he will be declared entitled to the seat.

Bishop Kavanaugh, of the M. E. Church, South, died in Mississippi, last Wednesday morning.

THE MOVEMENT SOUTHWARD.—A Potomac (Pa.) dispatch says: "Another colony of sailors and employees of the Potomac Iron Company have left here. These men have secured lucrative positions. Altogether some eighty skilled workmen have left here since the strike of the Potomac Iron Company's sailors was inaugurated in December last." These movements of iron workers are significant. They point the way in which the iron business is traveling. Both the cotton business and the iron business are moving southward. Dear coal and dear ores are driving iron makers away from Pennsylvania to the neighborhood of cheaper raw material. But we suppose there is not a Congressman from Eastern Pennsylvania who would dare cast his vote to take the tariff off of coal or iron ore.—Philadelphia Record.

PROPOSED NIGHT-LODGING HOUSES.—It is proposed to establish in New York a number of night-lodging houses on the Boston plan, in order to relieve the police stations of a burden which has become a nuisance. The Boston plan is to give the unfortunate who really needs it a supper, bed, breakfast, and, better than all, a bath, on condition that he does two hours' work for the night in the morning. By this means vagrancy has been greatly diminished and the professional tramp taught a useful compulsory lesson in cleanliness and industry.

A WESTERN SNOW BLIZZARD.—The most severe blizzard of the season is raging at Minneapolis, Minn. Travel of all kinds is suspended, and people keeping in doors. Specials from various points in Minnesota and Dakota state that the storm is severe everywhere. The trains on various railroads are either many hours late or abandoned. In the neighborhood of St. Vincent the snow in places has drifted twenty feet deep.

A colored man named Waller was run over and killed on the Virginia Midland Road, near Orange Court-house, a few days ago.

Washington Letter.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, March 22nd, 1884.
The long expected struggle on the Bonded Whiskey Extension bill began in the House of Representatives on Wednesday, the Chairman of the Ways and Means committee making a lengthy speech in its support. Mr. Morrison was followed by Mr. Willis of Kentucky, who said the people of Illinois, of Ohio, and of half a dozen states, his own included, were deeply, vitally interested in the passage of this bill. He stated that hundreds of letters and telegrams had come to every member on that floor from these states urging its passage. The discussion was continued on Thursday, but suspended over Friday, which is private bill day, and resumed again to-day.

The Post Office Appropriation bill got safely through the House, after encountering all sorts of adventures during an acrimonious debate of ten days, which was marked by many bitter party personalities. When Mr. Randall opposed an amendment extending to Congressmen the right to use penally envelopes for official business, the buffalo, Belford, who advocated it, said a man who objected to a Member of Congress sending a free letter on public business, was so narrow that he could look through a key hole with both eyes. Mr. Randall declined to cope with the gentleman from Colorado either in wit or in vulgarity, and mentioned that the people had condemned the franking privilege. He further said that those who stood there for economy, stood regardless of either sneers or applause. He did not know what the issues in the next campaign might be, but he did not think the Democratic party would ever be condemned for economy and frugality in public expenditures. Shortly before the bill passed, Congressman Reed of Maine, not into a discussion with Mr. Townsend of Illinois, who handled him very roughly. The Democratic Representative, said Mr. Reed, had always been a defender of speculators, railroad interests, and extravagant appropriations, which the latter furiously, and with belligerent gesticulations, denied.

The House disposed of the Lasker affair by adopting the resolutions of the Foreign Affairs Committee, to the effect that the House does not consider it requisite to its dignity to criticize the manner of the reception of the Oseltree resolutions by Prince Bismarck, or the circumstances which prevented them being communicated to the body for which they were intended. The red-haired Texas Congressman, who inaugurated all this disturbance, spoke in opposition to the resolution as semi-apologetic; saying it was unbecoming to the dignity of the House to enter into any explanations whatever as to the meaning of the original resolution, which spoke for itself.

Almost endless debate is predicted on the Educational bill which is now the most important measure before the Senate. It appropriates $120,000,000 to aid the more illiterate States in establishing and maintaining common schools. It provides $15,000,000 for the first year, and $1,000,000 less every year for ten years, the expenditure in each state to be proportioned to illiteracy.

A meeting was held in this city the other evening in behalf of the Negroes and Indians. A large audience came out to hear Gen. Armstrong, the principal of the Hampton school and some of his Indian and African pupils present their claims to be educated as other children. Chief Justice Waite presided, and among others who sat on the platform with him were Ex-Justice Strong, Senator Dawes, and Frederick Douglass. The committee on Indian affairs had just reported against the expediency of the proposed establishment of a military academy west of the Mississippi for training Indian youths as soldiers, but has advocated an appropriation of over five millions for the support of Indian schools.

In lieu of an important convention this week, Washington has her second international bazaar show, at which many canine aristocrats are present. It opened in a vocal concert, which has continued for several days. The music rendered varies in volume and intensity, but never entirely dies away.

By invitation of the superintendent, the President and his Cabinet visited the Exhibition on Thursday.

SALE TROTTERS.—At P. C. Kellogg & Co.'s seventh annual sale of trotting horses in New York, Tuesday, fifty-five horses were sold for $21,845, an average of $397 a head. Mr. John A. McCull, the comic opera manager, purchased for $275 the bay mare Orange Damsel, by Middleton, dam Nelly Port. Of this purchase the New York World says: "The purchase Col. McCull, looked upon as a streak of luck. Not only is she wonderfully well bred, and as such will make a valuable brood mare, but she is closely related to two horses that in his early struggling days with the B'jout Opera House served him well, when he was able to turn them both into cash to the tune of nearly $18,000; which kept the wolf from the door for some time, and finally tilted him into the prosperous haven—the Casino."

KEEP OFF THE TRACK.—By a recent act of the Legislature, it is made a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of not less than $20 nor more than $50, for any person to ride, lead or drive any horse, or other animal, purposely upon any railroad track, or intentionally arrange for any such animal to go upon any railroad track except in crossing from one side to another, without consent of the railroad company.

A contemporary says: "Two of the men named for positions on the Republican State ticket of Louisiana have refused the honor." Two more rats that don't want to be drowned. The next sinking ship will please report.

Henry George, in the course of one of his recent speeches in Glasgow, said: "Why, I suppose I would have been a protectionist to this day if I had never heard a protectionist's speech."

Meeting of the State Democratic Committee.

A meeting of the State Democratic Committee was held in the parlor of the Bradlock House at 12 M., to-day, Hon. John S. Barbour presiding, and Capt. Ham Shepperd secretary.

Upon a call of the roll it was ascertained that there were present: Thos. W. Waller, Thomas Smith (as proxy for Warner T. Jones), L. R. Watts (proxy for M. Glennan), Richard P. Beirne, C. T. O'Ferrall (proxy for R. H. Caldwell), B. H. Nash, B. A. Hancock, J. M. Hudding, Thomas W. Smith, C. G. Holland, L. C. Watkins, Alexander McDonald (proxy for P. A. Kise), S. J. Graham; Cam Patterson, Edward Echols, H. C. Allen, Henry Heaton, E. Holmes Boyd, T. P. Wallace, Gen. W. H. F. Lee, W. T. Moffet, S. H. Williams, and L. Q. Washington (proxy for P. J. Otev).

A sub-committee, consisting of Messrs. Thomas Smith, L. R. Watts, Richard P. Beirne, S. S. J. Graham and L. C. Watkins, was appointed to prepare business, and a recess was taken for thirty minutes.

After reassembling the committee, after discussion, resolved to call a convention to assemble in the city of Richmond at 12 M., on Wednesday, the 14th of May next, the basis of representation to be one delegate and one alternate to every 200 voters and fraction over 100 votes cast for the two electoral tickets for Hancock and English in 1880.

The chairman was instructed to issue a call for the convention, and invite all those who will vote for the nominees of the Democratic convention to assemble in Chicago on 8th July next, for President and Vice-President, to participate in the meetings at which delegates are to be selected to attend the convention on this call.

Col. Thomas Smith, from the sub-committee on business, offered the following:

Resolved, That the Democratic State Committee have observed with grave concern the division threatening the Democratic party of the country upon the tariff, and feel at liberty to express their opinion individually that the agitation of this question at this period is unwise, and should be discouraged, and that all Democrats should subordinate all differences, in concentration upon the one great issue of reform of the government and its restoration to purity and true constitutional principles.

Judge Allen, of Shenandoah, offered the following as a substitute.

Resolved, That without meaning to express the sentiments of the Democratic party of Virginia as a party, we, the members of the State Committee, coming from all sections of the Commonwealth as individuals, do deprecate the agitation of the tariff as a party question at this time, and that we do adhere to the platform adopted at Lynchburg last July as containing our views on the subjects of both the tariff and internal revenue, and we believe, as expressing the views of a large majority of the Democrats of Virginia.

After a somewhat extended discussion Judge Allen withdrew his substitute and the original resolution was adopted unanimously.

The following resolution was also adopted, after several speeches had been made condemnatory of the character of the testimony being taken before the Senate Danville Investigating Committee and promulgated to the detriment of the people of the State.

Resolved, That the State Committee earnestly urge the Virginia Democratic delegation in Congress to use all possible diligence to bring before the Danville Investigating Committee the evidence which is necessary to refute the foul and infamous slander which have been given to the public by the leaders of the Coalition party in reference to this matter, and that the committee authorize their chairman to retain the services of such counsel as they may deem necessary in the premises.

The following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That the Campaign newspaper is hereby recommended to the confidence and support of the party in the State; that its services to the party and Virginia are recognized; that this committee pledge whatever assistance may be necessary and that circumstances render practicable.

Whereas it has come to the knowledge of the committee that the Campaign is its next issue will contain a full account of the measures adopted by the Legislature and of the record of the Democratic party since its recovery of power, and that the same will be valuable as a public document; therefore, be it

Resolved, That it be suggested to the Executive Committee to subscribe for 1500 copies of said issue, to be paid for with funds hereafter to be collected.

The committee adjourned to meet at the Exchange Hotel in Richmond on the evening of the 13th of May.

When the selection of the place for holding the convention was up Richmond and Norfolk were named, and the vote read: Richmond, 15; Norfolk 9.—Alex. Gazdler.

The Adjournment of the Legislature.

With the adjournment of the Legislature comes the verdict that the work has been well done. The members, faces show that they have been almost worked to death. Their appearance would indicate that they had been laboring all day and night, living on bread and water and finding themselves.

Where the fun of being a member of the Democratic Reform Legislature comes in does not exactly appear. The members knew they were elected to accomplish a great object, to wrest the State from the rule of Mahoneism. They have done this well. They have shown up the rottenest party any State has ever known.

The Little Ring of the defunct Boss is disappointed. It expected the Democrats to make many grave errors. Thought they would lose their heads in the time of victory. But a more quiet plodding methodical set of men never gathered together in the Capitol of Virginia than these Reformers. And they went to their work like business men.

This Legislature disposed of more important business than any since that of 1869-70. Among some of the most striking measures adopted by the Democrats was the apportionment of the State for members of Congress, by which the Democrats claim they will carry six out of ten districts certain, with chance for two more. The coupon bill, looking to the enforcement of the Riddleberger debt, are numerous, the most important of which are the requiring of brokers dealing in coupons to pay a license of $250 for the same and that requiring all licenses to be paid in money. The Democrats also amended the present election laws, so as to take the control of the machinery in all the cities and counties in the State from the Mahone ring, changed to some extent the system of electing school trustees; vacated the places of directors of all the lunatic asylums and the Daff, Dumb and Blind Institute, which will result in removing the more prominent Mahoneite officials now managing those institutions. They adopted a resolution calling upon Mahone to resign his seat in the United States Senate; adopted a law establishing a female normal school, and passed other laws intended to add to the prosperity of the State. This Legislature, it is estimated, appropriated about $150,000 for special objects.

In the matter of the impeachment trial of Jackson L. Vannine, Mahone school superintendent for Hanover county, the Senate adopted a resolution requesting the House of Delegates to withdraw its charges and let the case be disposed of by the State Educational Board. The object in recommending this course, as set forth in the resolution, was because, owing to the pressure of more important business, the Senate had not been able to go into the trial of Vannine. The House of Delegates refuse to withdraw the charges against that officer, and the matter goes over to next session.

The appropriation bill, which has been approved by the Governor, provides for the investment of the surplus funds in the treasury to an amount not exceeding $100,000 per month, in Riddleberger bonds, to meet the interest on the whole State debt when funded.

A very important measure passed during the week was the bill for the revision of the code, Judge F. C. Burks, Judge W. R. Staples and John W. Kelley were elected revisers.—[The Campaign.]

A PECULIAR TELEGRAPH COMPANY.—Mr. George B. Pennock, of Camden, N. J. states that the new Atlantic Seaboard Telegraph Company, of which he is president, will lay its lines in the beds of navigable rivers, and where that is impossible will place them underground. The object of the company is to establish telegraph lines throughout the United States, the trunk line running from Washington to Boston. The company are now laying a cable between Philadelphia and Mount Holly, which will be pushed seaward as rapidly as possible.

The line is expected to include Cape May, Atlantic City, Trenton and New York early in the summer. The right of way is now being secured. Only copper wires, covered with water-proof composition, will be used as conductors, and he estimates the cost of construction at fifty per cent. lower than that of an ordinary telegraph of similar capacity. The rates will, therefore, be much lower than upon other lines between Washington and Boston, being ten cents for ten words.

This company is debauched by its charter from consolidating or selling out to any corporation, assignee or person; as it cannot be swallowed up by an

of the big monopolists. It is intended to establish subcompanies to operate in a similar way in other parts of the United States, and these will pay tribute to the parent company.

A DELAY IN ISSUING COMMISSIONS.—RICHMOND, Va., March 24.—The commissions of the members of the county electoral board, charged with the appointment of trustees of the public schools, have not yet been sent out from the capital. The law creating these boards requires that their members shall qualify before April 1, 1884. If they do not, the present school trustees will remain in office for four years succeeding that time unless the new law is amended at another session of the Legislature.

Those interested are carefully scrutinizing the recent acts of the General Assembly looking to the better enforcement of the Riddleberger debt settlement.

The law passed by the recent Legislature providing for the appointment of registers and judges of election by local electoral boards requires the judges and registers be appointed and to qualify by April 1. Commissioners have been sent out to all the members of these boards. If they fail to qualify and make the appointment of these election officers by April 1st the present incumbents hold over twelve months from that time. The members of the boards are requested to qualify before a judge of the Circuit, Corporation or County Court.

WHAT A REPUBLICAN SAYS OF THE DANVILLE RIOT.—The following is from the Kanawha (W. Va.) Gazette of March 19th:

Col. C. C. Tompkins, a prominent business man of Virginia, interviewing friends in Kanawha, was interviewed by a townsman a few days since, a part of which may be of some interest to our people, and we give it to them in substance:

"I want to ask you if the Democrats have anything they want to do in connection with the Danville riot?"

"Well sir, I must give you a word of explanation before I answer your question. I suppose you think I am a Democrat because I am from Virginia, but I am not. If there is a Simon-pure Republican in the United States, I claim to be that man. And now that you understand my position I will answer your question."

"The Democrats have no wish to conceal anything connected with the Danville riot. They court an investigation, so that the truth may be brought out and before the public in regard to that matter. The responsibility for the whole disturbance rests first on Mahone, for the policy he has pursued in his conduct of political matters in Virginia; and next, it rests on his miserable tool Sims, in making the very inflammatory speech he did just previous to the riot and election. They are the men that ought to be dealt with for that disturbance as the responsible parties."

Five hundred and seventy-two bills passed the General Assembly at its last session.

A dozen or more citizens of Staunton and vicinity emigrated to California last week.

A report that the State Board of Education, composed of the Governor, the Attorney-General and the Superintendent of Public Instruction, would now, since the General Assembly has adjourned, turn out to officiate all the Democratic school superintendents in the State and fill their places with Mahoneite is pronounced untrue.

A man named Swaden, living twelve miles from the scene of the recent explosion in the Flat Top mine, had the widows shaken out of his house by its force.
